

The HATS STEDTRAIN Program
is helping K-12 teachers inspire and prepare students for technical careers.

The HATS STEDTRAIN Grant Program makes awards to K-12 teachers in the north Alabama-south central Tennessee area for proposing and implementing innovative “hands on” engineering, science, and math activities in their classrooms. This year 45 teachers received grants of up to $1000 each for the 2010-2011 school season.

The Program since 1988 has distributed over $330,000 for 355 individual grants and other worthy educational projects. The yearly seed grants and other activities currently benefit an estimated 10,000 students directly and about 20,000 indirectly.

HATS is grateful to many of its Member societies, corporate, foundations, and individual donors for their support. The current economic situation; however, undoubtedly will substantially increase the number of grant applications received for the 2011-2012 school season, requiring funding substantially beyond what was previously possible.

We need further community support. Please help.
